Notes Abstract. Made up title.

Wax from Mirica cerifera; not much inform. about this except that the tree abounded in the forests around New Orleans; there was a specimen of the tree in the arboretum of M. Rast Maupas.

A specimen of the family Cucurbitaceae (undescribed and unnamed), also from Louisiana, and called there torchon. The seeds smelt like ginger.

A nut of the Juglans olivae formis, which was similar to the olive, but much nicer to eat. Rast had already begun experiments to grow this tree.
